

Why contribute to WSO?

Every ACA message of hope begins with one adult child finding a way into recovery.

For some, that first connection happens in a meeting. For others, it begins with a book, a website, a translation, or a piece of literature that finally puts words to their experience.

None of that happens by accident.

ACA's World Service Organization helps support the shared services that keep the message available to adult children everywhere.

Your contribution helps carry that message forward.

What does WSO do with contributions?

Makes ACA literature available through publishing, translations, and support for new recovery materials

Supports essential fellowship services including helping adult children connect with meetings, literature, and recovery resources around the world

Maintains shared ACA resources including websites, warehouses, literature systems, and digital tools

Your support helps keep ACA's message of hope and recovery available to the next adult child who needs it.

Thank you for helping carry the message.
